December 2021

To the RISE Learning Center Parents, Students, and Families;

As the season for inclement weather approaches, we have a plan for possible school closing days. Our teachers will continue to provide instruction either virtual learning platforms or, in some cases, by sending packets home. Teachers will be available to students and be checking in on progress during a school closure. If we have enough advance warning of a closing, we will send student devices or packets home the day before. If we do not have enough notice, but the weather clears, we will have some staff deliver materials as needed.

Please make sure the office has your current phone number for the automated phone calls and/or texts for delays and closures.

Let's hope the weather stays moderate, but plan for possible inclement weather.

Thank you,

Scott D. Carson Ph.D
Director of RISE Learning Center
